Petersburg, Va., July 16.

Much business was transacted to-day in the Hustings Court, the first day of the July term. The grand jury brought in eight indictments against parties charged with various kinds of crime, among them one against Chas.
Goldstein, a white man of Rocky Mount.
N. C., for stealing a valuable gold watch, the property of J. C. Adams, a roommate in the boarding-house kept by Mrs. Harriett, on Boilingbrook Street. This watch was recovered at a pawnshop in Richmond, where it had been disposed of for a few dollars.
Goldstein was convicted and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, with work on the public roads.

Zohn Thweatt and John Parker, megroes, were indicted for having cocaine in their possession with intent to sell. Mr. Charles T. Lassiter, counsel for the accused, raised the question of the constitutionality of the law under which the indictment was found, on the ground that the act is broader than its title; that it prohibits the sale and giving away of cocaine, but does not mention "possession" of the dop.
The constitutionality of the act was upheld by Commonwealth's Attorney Mann, and the court took the question under consideration, to render opinion later.

In the case of James M. Young, who appealed from the decision of the Mayor in sentencing him to jail for six months for assault, the accused was released on his own recognizance to appear at September court.

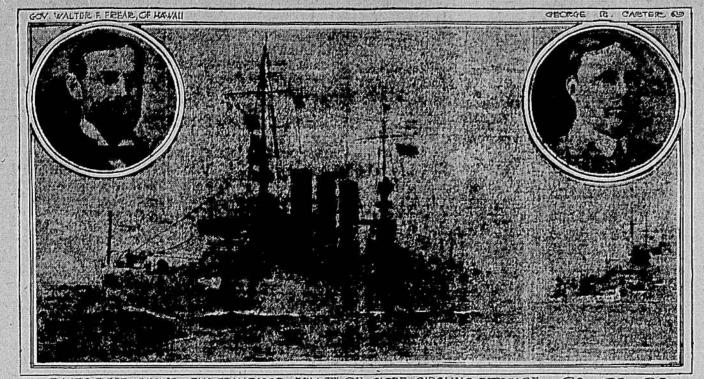

The case of the Rev. Ell Tartt, pastor of the Harrison Street Baptist Church, colored, and some ten or a dozen members of the church, indicted for assault and other offenses, were continued in the absence of leading counsel. The appeal case of the Rev. Tartt from a sentence to jail for three the from a sentence to jail for three ths from the Mayor's Court was over for the same reason to July

It stayed there all day, was picked up last night and identified by the liverymen. Last night when Mr. Robinson drove up to the stable he learned his mistake and this moraing notified Captain Wilson.

She gave several receipts for foods that could be cooked with simple apparatus in school, requiring only a small blue-flame oil stove. She also spoke of the benefit to be derived by having school boys and girls make things for their county fairs. Agriculture comes back to the question of homes. Farms cannot exist without homes, and the highest calling is home making. We must put household work on a plane with other work, and not look upon it as a drudgery. Domestic science therefore should be taught in all public schools.
